TEACHERS CREATE ONLINE LEARNING RESOURCE FOR PEMBROKESHIRE PUPILS

Pembrokeshire primary school teachers have got together to create a fantastic bilingual online learning resource for County children and families to use at home.

www.dysguarlein.com has been created by teachers from schools across the County to help with home-schooling while the coronavirus lockdown continues.

Dysguarlein is now live and features a range of fun and engaging activities for home learning.

Cllr Guy Woodham, Cabinet Member for Education and Lifelong Learning at Pembrokeshire County Council hailed the efforts that have gone into the site.

He added: "I am delighted that our schools have collaborated to create high quality online learning activities for parents and pupils that can be used to compliment the ongoing work that is being set by all schools using HWB and other resources.

"We all want nothing more than to have children safely back in their schools.

"However, until we are confident about easing virus restrictions on children we can now pick up additional high quality learning experiences created by local teachers at www.dysguarlein.com."
